PHOENIX, Sept. 26, 2018 /PRNewswire/ -- Troxell, a national leader in education technology & collaboration solutions for more than 60 years, is happy to announce Michelle Eddy as the new Account Executive for the Chicago Territory. She will work closely with school districts in Northern Illinois on their 1:1 device needs, collaborative classroom furniture, school asset management, campus safety needs, and STEM/STEAM/MakerSpace initiatives. Michelle is taking over the territory from Kevin LeBlanc, who recently departed the company.

"I'm so excited to be a part of this amazing company," said Michelle Eddy. "I look forward to working with the Northern Illinois districts to provide resources that build classrooms in which students want to learn."

"I am very excited to have Michelle join our team!" said Dottie Stewart, Regional Vice President of Troxell's Central and Northeast Territories. "She brings expertise in multiple areas of educational technology that will benefit our customer partnerships. I think she will be a great asset in helping districts meet their technology goals."

Michelle was born and raised in Northern Illinois, which is where she currently lives with her husband and daughter. She has been in the education field for 21 years. Before coming to Troxell, she worked with school districts to integrate online content into the classroom, allowing educators to meet the needs of their individual students. Prior to that, she worked with schools to automate their libraries and manage assets at the school and district level. Michelle's passion is bridging the gap between education and technology. Her goal is to put the right tools in the hands of teachers, administrators, and students to make their school and learning experience the best it can be.
