PHOENIX, Oct. 25, 2017 /PRNewswire/ -- Troxell, a national leader in education technology and collaboration solutions for more than 60 years, is proud to announce it has been awarded the Hunterdon County Educational Services Commission (ESC) Cooperative Purchasing bid for Interactive Technology for Classrooms & Meeting Rooms – Catalog Sales. As one of the vendors awarded the contract, Troxell participated in the sealed bid process and was granted the award based on successful evaluations of required performance and provider criteria.

Contract number HCEC-CAT-17-02, awarded by Hunterdon County ESC, Califon, NJ, is effective from April 10, 2017 through April 9, 2019. On the contract, Troxell represents multiple manufacturers for products and services, offering a wide range of discounts up to 70%. The contract includes products in categories:

- 1:1
- Audio
- Audio Visual
- Furniture
- Mounts
- Photo
- Presentation Products
- Projectors
- Screens
- TVs/Monitors
- Video

"We are pleased to be awarded the Interactive Technology for Classrooms and Meeting Rooms contract through Hunterdon County ESC," said Dottie Stewart, Regional Vice President of Sales - Central and Northeast. "The co-op, with 450 members, gives school districts of all sizes access to the best resources through the bid program, allowing even the smaller school districts the opportunity to improve technology in their classrooms."

Through Hunterdon County ESC, Troxell participated in a comprehensive Request for Proposal (RFP) competitive solicitation. Hunterdon County ESC employs industry best practices, processes and procedures within a well-defined structure of accountability for effectiveness and efficiency to lighten the burden placed on local taxpayers.

Troxell continues to participate in multiple national, regional, state and local contracts, helping educational institutions pay less for products and reduce administrative costs in order to overcome the challenges of tight and diminishing budgets.
